

Puzzle 3: Filmy School

---

Robert Cummings invents a pill that turns water into gasoline. When the oil companies come to shut him down, he gives the formula to two friends, both named Albert, and tells them to run to the most distant land possible.

Alan Rickman meets the autistic mother of a passenger who died in a crash in a car Rickman was driving. The mother has a cleanliness compulsion, and had refused to allow anyone but her now dead daughter to help clean up her home, including a walking stick covered in nasal mucus.

Tom Cruise trains as an elite fighter pilot, and hopes to use the Navy's new weapon, a chewable candy that requires just a touch to activate.

Doctor and grave robber Richard Conte pleads and beseeches the leader of a gang of athletes to join.

Dustin Hoffman tries to contain a deadly epidemic, whose victims are compelled to compete with each other to see who can go berserk and rave the most.

Small town sheriff and former FBI agent Arnold Schwarzenegger agrees to infiltrate a mafia-run animal hospital that specializes in rodents.

Hailee Steinfeld gets a tough, eye-patched U.S. Marshal to layout an arboretum in a matrix.

When the matriarch of Vanessa Williams's extended family falls into a coma, the clan must hold themselves together through their weekly Sunday gathering of driving a car made of dirt.

Billy Crystal goes out west to complete bibliographies from books about herds of television remotes.

John Turturro competes in a TV program where he must stop vamoosing away annoying objects, but it turns out the whole thing is rigged.

Tom Hanks is a pilot who lands a plane in a river grumpily.